

Navigating

In Your Workplace

Navigating Through Change:

We are often not in control of the changes that occur in our workplaces. All types of organizational change create a situation in which an employee must go through a period of transition.

This session will provide insight for front line staff on how the change process may impact them and ideas for working through the process positive and productive way.

This 1-hour workshop is open to all frontline staff that are part of our Healing our Health System initiatives for the fall implementation.

For more details or to book upcoming sessions please contact Connie Lemoine at clemoine3@wrha.mb.ca